

NEW MOTHERSHIP IN THE GULF OF PANAMA

Expanding its portfolio of luxury lodges on the Pacific Ocean, West Coast Fishing Club recently launched a magnificent 12-berth, 160-foot motor ship — West Coast Fishing Club Pacific Provider — and plans to take her to the Las Perlas

Islands in the Gulf of Panama this April. This unique vessel offers exceptional accommodations for those looking for the ultimate in adventure and comfort while fishing the rich Panama waters for marlin, sails and more, with direct access to the water and some of the most experienced guides in the industry.

Set to launch its first land-based Panama fishing lodge in the Las Perlas Islands in early 2012, West Coast Fishing Club Pacific Provider allows guests to experience a world-class fishing-lodge atmosphere, along with the thrill of game fishing in the Panamanian waters, much sooner than expected. With no expense spared in its design, the ship offers a compelling combination of luxury, exclusivity and performance. Onboard facilities include six staterooms with flat-screen TVs, air conditioning, fine linens and wide windows with stunning views. Common areas include a well-appointed dining room, a gourmet kitchen, a lounge with a full-service cocktail bar, a fitness room, a sun deck, a Jacuzzi and a wine cellar with the capacity for 600 bottles.

For those arriving by air, the West Coast Fishing Club Pacific Provider also offers a commercially certified helicopter deck. A fleet of four state-of-the-art Strike Yachts, complete with skilled fishing guides, are available to guests, promising ease of access to the bountiful fishing grounds of Panama's west coast and the plummeting depths of the continental shelf. West Coast Fishing Club is an advocate for its catch-and-release policy, supported by Panamanian fishing industry practices. To find out more, visit westcoastfishingclub.com.
