

'Wanna Go Fishing?' His answer is on TV

By ERIC CARPENTER
2010-12-10 10:51:47

ORANGE – Mike Fleming, 58, stuck out in the group of young, attractive sorority sisters outside Chapman University.

So, as the annual Orange International Street Fair got under way, he didn't find it odd when a roaming camera crew approached and began asking him questions.

How many years had he been coming to the Street Fair? What did he like about it?

Fleming, the chief executive officer of Farrell's Ice Cream, who'd come to talk to his daughter and her friends, played along. He answered with enthusiasm, believing it was a city-sponsored camera crew promoting the festival.

But then the questions took an odd turn:

What do you do in your spare time?

Skiing, fishing, Fleming replied.

Then the interviewer asked a stunner:

Wanna go fishing? In Canada?

"What?!", Fleming thought. His head was spinning.

You have five minutes to decide.

Are they serious? Is my passport current?

Wait... who are these guys?

Fleming was allowed two phone calls. And, with only five minutes, he had to make them fast.