Summer arrived almost on cue friends. Last week I had the privilege to observe the June 21 solstice from The Outpost. On the following evening, the 11:00 pm sunset view from the helipad of Port Louis was breathtaking, with Brock Island perfectly silhouetted against a crimson sky. Dawn broke just five hours later, featuring radiant sunlight on flat calm water – a portrait of serenity, if only it wasn’t changeover day! How we envied the new guests who would soon arrive to fish and “just be” in that magnificent place for the next four days.
